I am very happy to present the third annual CSR Report of L&T Technology Services.

In a world of incessant churn, where disruption is the new 'normal', the core values of a company remain immutable. LTTS, a listed subsidiary of Larsen & Toubro, shares the unchanging ethos of the parent Group, and its larger commitment to community and country.

Ever since we set up the company a decade & a half ago, LTTS has leveraged the twin forces of technology and human ingenuity to create positive impact in business and industry. The focus of the company's CSR endeavors is to deploy the same two forces to initiate change at the social level – change that is measurable, meaningful and sustainable.

The dominant themes of our CSR program, encompassing education, skill development, healthcare, water conservation and the environment, are all critical to the building of a new order that is more equitable and inclusive. This Report records the significant progress achieved across all fronts.

I am also happy that many among Team LTTS have been enthused with the idea of taking the company's objective further. For many of them, CSR is not a mere duty to be performed but a responsibility to be lived up to every day.

In a vast country like India, with disparate communities and discordant voices, the challenges confronting those who seek to bring about social change can be daunting. I am confident however that LTTS and its people have the resources and the resolve to contribute to a future which will hopefully see more smiles across the miles.
